

Established in September 2007, LBW Environment is a South Australian, family-owned company providing environmental consulting services and advice. We are strongly committed to delivering useful, timely and affordable outcomes for our clients' projects.

LBW's clients are diverse and include oil and gas providers, property developers, architects, construction companies, civil contractors, state government, local government, project managers and small private clients.

Our clients' projects vary from small sites to very large ones and span metropolitan Adelaide to regional South Australia, Queensland and Northern Territory.

Our pragmatic, solution focused service to clients combined with a supportive family friendly environment for our staff, differentiates LBW in the market.

Our Team

Our team of professional scientists and managers, lead by Managing Director, Jarrod Bishop, has substantial experience in the environmental consulting industry.

In addition to our in-house resources, LBW has a reciprocal agreement for environmental services with another small environmental consultancy, which serves to expand the capability and capacity of our team with highly regarded other professional consultants.

We are a small, flexible and dedicated team that is committed to quality and timely project delivery. Our workload is carefully managed to ensure that our capacity to deliver in accordance with agreed timeframes is not compromised.

Our Values

A simple value system of respect, loyalty and family combined with client focus, commitment and delivery provide a secure platform for our business and interpersonal relationships.
